Ashville Girls Present Gifts In Hospital

"A friend in need is a friend indeed," was the thought carried out recently by Ashville Brownie Girl Scout Troop No. 12 at a Christmas gift ceremony in Children's hospital, Columbus.

The Brownie troop has engaged a progressive program throughout the year under the leadership of Mrs. Everett Peters and Mrs. Hewitt Cromley.

Recognizing the needs of little friends who have been unfortunate enough to land in the hospital, the troopers spent many evenings stuffing dolls and animals to present to children there.

In the rear row are Beverly Riegel, Carolyn Stout, Carole Six, Kaye Morrison, Elisabeth Sark, Catherine Cromley, Carole Peters and Mary Jo Bowers.

Bigger, Better Worm Developed

DECATUR, Ill., Dec. 18 — A Decatur man today announced the discovery of a bigger and better worm.

James Potter, worm scientist, said the worm is more active, lengthier, and tougher than any worm previously developed.

Potter now is waiting for fishermen to beat a path to his door.

In addition, a soldier friend of Ybarbo's told the court that the Silver Star medal-winning sergeant confessed before the brawl that another German girl insisted he support her new born child.

Dual Spy Probe Held In Gotham

'Important' Data Said Uncovered

NEW YORK, Dec. 18—The double-barreled federal probe of Communist espionage centered in New York today, where House Un-American Activities Committee members said "highly important" new information has been uncovered.

Rep. McDowell, (R) Pa., a committee member, refused to disclose the nature of the new data he gathered in hotel-room questioning of a number of witnesses.

He did not identify the witnesses, but said their testimony is "very, very new and concerns espionage in government affairs."

Meanwhile, the new federal grand jury, determined to probe fully into angles left undeveloped by its predecessor, called on the two chief informants in the spy case for more testimony.

Ex-Communist Spy Courier Whitaker Chambers, hopeful he has been vindicated by the indictment of Alger Hiss, former high State Department official who accused Chambers of falsely naming him as a spy source, was closeted with the jury for some time.

The jury also prepared to quiz Elizabeth Bentley, like Chambers an admitted ex-Communist.

Airmen Ponder New Rescue Try On Icecap

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18 — The Air Force worked today on new methods of rescuing at least ten airmen marooned on a Greenland icecap.

Two glider pickup attempts were unsuccessful. A glider had been dropped to aid men marooned in two crashes on the 7,000-foot icecap, but "nosed up" when a tow-cord from a C-54 transport hooked on in an attempt to pull it off the snow.

The heels of the glider dug into the soft snow, causing the accident. In the new attempts a short plywood runway will be constructed, and the wheels may possibly be removed from the glider to give it sled action on the snow.

The number of men awaiting rescue mounted with rescue attempts. Seven men were marooned Dec. 17 when their C-54 crash landed. They were joined later by the two-man crew of a B-17 bomber when it also dug into the snow in an attempted rescue landing.

The glider dropped to pick up the men is designed for a pilot and an additional crew member, but the USAF in Washington did not know whether one or two men were aboard.

RED CROSS UNIT TO BE HERE MONDAY

Ex-GI Here Wants To Return Blood He Received In Italy

The American Red Cross Bloodmobile will be in Circleville Monday and at least one Pickaway County ex-serviceman sees in the visit a chance to "repay a debt."

He is Woodrow Eccard of 121 East Mill Street (rear). Eccard, now a storeman at the Picway power plant of the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co., owes his life to a pint of blood.

He said Saturday he would make every effort Monday to "pay that debt."

The Bloodmobile will be at Circleville First Methodist church from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. Monday. Appointments can be made with Karl Johnson (phone 333), chairman of the local blood committee.

Bloodmobile officials here reported other ex-GIs were of the same attitude as Eccard whose case is typical.

He was an infantryman with the U. S. Army, held in reserve in North Africa for the Italian invasion.

IT WAS AT SALERNO that Eccard was felled by a fragmentation bomb. He received a blood transfusion in a field hospital. He left that hospital Dec. 7, 1944, and was transferred to a Stateside hospital where he remained until his final discharge Oct. 18, 1945. He had served overseas 18 months.

The Bloodmobile now is a civilian function.

Residents of Pickaway County can directly help those needing surgery, suffering from burns, shock, or other emergencies by

In announcing that 100 donors are needed to make the blood collection a complete success, Johnson emphasized the life-or-death importance of blood and its derivatives to hospital patients and the impossibility of obtaining the substance from other than human sources.

"There are no substitutes for whole blood, plasma, or other derivatives," Johnson said. "If anything good can be said to have come out of the war, it is this... the knowledge that certain portions of human blood can be extracted, powdered, preserved and, then, without loss of time, be put back into the bloodstreams of others

Doctor Poisons Himself; Slays Wife's Lover

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 18—A St. Louis physician charged with fatally stabbing his wife's lover was reported recovering today from the effects of poison he swallowed when police came to his home.

St. Louis City hospital attendants said Dr. Robert C. Rutledge's condition was still critical but that he "is getting along a little better."

Police said Rutledge admitted yesterday that he killed Byron C. Hattman, 29, during a fight in a Cedar Rapids, Ia., hotel room last Tuesday night.

The twenty-seven-year-old Rutledge said he remembered taking a knife from Hattman and "swinging it" while they fought.

Police quoted the physician as saying Hattman "pulled the knife" when they quarreled over Hattman's attention to Mrs. Sydney Rutledge, 23.

RUTLEDGE said Hattman had telephoned his St. Louis home frequently during the last three months "to call my wife vulgar names."

According to police, Rutledge (Continued on Page Two)

Demint Brothers Seek Unsinful School Classes

CHILLICOTHE, Dec. 18—The Demint brothers of Chillicothe, who think their high school gym clothes are "sinful," can spend part of their Christmas holidays getting themselves enrolled in a "recognized school."

If 15-year-old Preacher John Demint and his 17-year-old brother, Chester, are not in school by Jan. 3, they and their mother, Mrs. Ruth Demint, will be in trouble with the law.

The boys first skipped their gym classes and then all classes because they think their uniforms of middie blouse and shorts too brief and daring.

Juvenile Judge Kenneth T. Stevens said action would be taken against the two boys and their mother unless their truancy is stopped by Jan. 3—the date Chillicothe schools take up again after the holidays. Their legal vacation started yesterday.

Earlier this week, the Springfield schools refused to admit the Demint boys because they lived outside the school district.

John, who carries his Bible to classes, said he asked admittance to the Springfield schools because he understood the principal there was "a very religious man and would understand" the Demint boys' problem.

Big Farm Output Seen

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18—American farmers faced a new year today with plans to continue large-scale production efforts which made 1948 a year strewn with broken records.

The men who grow the crops apparently are holding to that course even though this year's bumper yields netted them less actual profit than the smaller crops of 1947.

They are convinced—or so it seems—that plentiful production will pay off again in 1949 despite a solemn warning by the government itself that rising costs and some decline in farm commodity prices is likely to reduce the profit margin still further.

Official reports on planting intentions are not yet in. It is generally conceded, however, that at least 80 million acres of wheat will be sown compared with 77 million for this year's harvest.

BOTH HIGH yields and fairly large acreages were factors in the huge volume of 1948 crops.

In its final crop report of the year, the Agriculture Department again upped its estimate of corn yield—this time by about a million bushels. The department said the three billion, 651 million bushel harvest exceeds the previous record by about 12 percent.

It also adjusted the wheat crop estimate by four million bushels and settled on a final figure of one billion, 28 million bushels. This was the second largest wheat harvest in history.

With normal production in 1949, the wheat yield would surpass the billion bushel mark for the fifth consecutive year.

Brother Offers Eye As Gift

CINCINNATI, Dec. 18—A 31-year-old unemployed father of two young girls sought funds today to enable him to give one of his eyes to partially restore his older brother's vision.

The father, Edward Seymour, a Cincinnati war veteran, offered the eye as a Christmas present to his Brother, Charles, 35.

Physicians said that transplanting of healthy tissue may restore the sight of the elder Seymour, who has been totally blind since an attack of measles at the age of eight.

HIS FIRST MISSTEP at only 6 months old is being paid for by Jimmy Lyons, trussed up in an overhead traction splint in Baptist hospital, Little Rock, Ark. He fell from chair, broke thigh.

8 Communist Armies Set Against City

Chiang Ordering Bitter-End Fight

NANKING, Dec. 18 — Eight Communist armies closed in on Peiping for the kill tonight as Nationalist leaders ordered their troops to battle to the end on all fronts.

The Reds claimed in a radio broadcast that they were battering at the gates of China's oldest city and also asserted they had captured Peiping's largest airport.

The city's southern airport was under heavy Communist shell fire but was reported still in government hands.

Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek ordered strong naval reinforcements rushed to the aid of Nationalist forces stationed at the port of Tangku near Tientsin.

Chiang also said to have demanded a bitter-end defense of the Yangtze river barrier which defends Nanking, Shanghai and all of Central China from the southward thrust of the Red armies.

Gen. Fu Tso-Yi, military commander in North China, was reported to have ordered his field commanders to put up a last-ditch defense of Peiping and Tientsin.

GEN. FU HAS concentrated his troops in the Peiping suburbs in what is believed to be preparation for large scale defensive counter-attacks.

His forces were said to have evacuated Peitang, 30 miles east of Tientsin which guards Tangku, the government's only outlet to the sea in North China.

Pro-government sources in Tientsin admitted that the Reds had captured two suburbs on the outskirts of Peiping, where there was believed to be heavy fighting.

As the Communists pressed new attacks towards the Yangtze river on the central front to within 40 miles of Nanking, Chiang was said to have called a high strategic conference in which leading officials of the defense ministry participated.

At this meeting, Chiang was reliably reported to have reiterated forcefully his determination to carry on the fight as he ordered new defense measures above the Yangtze.

8 Men Escape Serious Injury In Headon Crash

Eight men escaped serious injury early Saturday when the auto in which they were riding collided two miles north of Circleville on Route 23.

John Neuding, 21, of Circleville was driver of one of the vehicles with two passengers and Robert Bradford, 30, of Columbus drove the other car containing four passengers.

State Highway Patrolman Charles Watters said Neuding attempted to pass a truck while travelling north on 23, and failed to see the approaching auto.

Halfway around the truck, Neuding spied the oncoming car and swerved toward a ditch to the left. Bradford also started for the ditch, and Neuding swerved back again toward the center of the road.

The Neuding auto was smashed broadside by Bradford's auto, and slewed around to face south in the right-hand ditch.

Lawrence Capehart, 41, of Columbus, was knocked unconscious in the collision. J. Irwin Wilson, 25, also of Columbus, was given emergency treatment in Berger hospital for a laceration over his right eye.

Neuding and companions were travelling to work in Columbus, while Bradford and his passengers had been coming to work in Circleville.

Neuding was fined $15 and costs by Mayor Thurman I. Miller for passing without an assured clear distance ahead.

Tribunal Studies Trial Of Yank Woman In Reich

MARBURG, Germany, Dec. 18 — A U. S. tribunal studied today a defense motion to acquit attractive Mrs. Wilma Ybarbo, charged with killing her GI husband and boasting "I am not sorry."

The bold move for acquittal was lodged by Defense Attorney Stanley Gaines of Boston, who claimed that the prosecution had failed to prove its charge of "malice afore-

Here, Here Now! Boys On Hunt For Doll Babies

Boy Scout Troop 232 issued a plea for doll babies Saturday.

"He-men" Boy Scouts usually don't come right out and ask for dollies, but members of Troop 232 do—and for good cause.

The local scouts are sponsoring a toy-collection program to supply underprivileged Pickaway County youngsters with Christmas gifts this year—gifts which probably would not be hanging from the tree without aid.

At a recent meeting, the lads found they had plenty of doll cribs, but lacked the dolls with which to fill them.

"Any doll will do," says Victor K. Oesterling, troop Scoutmaster. "And by the way, how about that sled or set of building blocks the youngster has outgrown?"

THE SCOUTS have converted their meeting room in Trinity Lutheran church into a "Santa's workshop."

Results of their work is grouped on a sizable platform, toys ranging from a big bass drum to small upholstered chairs.

Included in the gifts to be given are airplane kits, doll carriages, "rocket" guns, Chinese checker boards, and a host of other articles to make kiddies' eyes shine.

The doll babies and other used toys will be accepted in the parish house until Tuesday.

Warning: Avoid Wassail Bowl

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18 — If you're going to drive on Christmas day, stay away from the wassail bowl.

That's the advice given today by George R. Hammond, safety and education director of the American Automobile Association. Hammond quipped:

"In pies and puddings put rum and brandy; but not where drivers find it handy."

THE HOUSE committee appeared determined to give the jury more new material for investigation and possible indictments.

McDowell was said to have come to New York to talk to five witnesses yesterday. It was understood he had only questioned two.

Two men, who said they had been asked to appear before the House committee, showed up at New York's Federal Building yesterday and waited for the congressman until they learned he would not appear.

They were identified as Dr. Max Yergan, former executive secretary of the American Council of African Affairs, and George Huxitt, alias Tim Holmes, who has involved in deportation hearings testing Communists.

Later, McDowell revealed that in the interest of secrecy, he had decided to question witnesses in the privacy of a hotel room after learning that newsmen knew of this trip to New York.

While McDowell busied himself with new witnesses, the grand jury called in another ex-State Department aide said who has been heard by the House committee. He was Henry J. Wadeigh, another ex-State Department aide said by Chambers to have turned over secret information to the Communist spy ring.

Wadeigh, like Hiss, has denied the charge. After leaving the grand jury room, he told newsmen: "I knew Alger in the State Department. I was always favorably impressed with his personality and courage."

200 Employees Attend Annual Ralston Party

More than 200 employees and wives of the Circleville Ralston-Purina plant were entertained with an old fashioned musical program at the company's Christmas party Friday night in Memorial Hall.

The show was organized from the ranks of local employees by John Carle. In the cast were Lloyd Yenner, Jack Miller, Lloyd McNeal, Ray Allen and Floyd Stonerock.

Following the turkey dinner, 17 Ralston workers were honored by the company with service and safety awards. Dance music was provided by Lewis Meier's orchestra of Lancaster.

A new vacation plan organized by plant officials will give each employee with 15 years service three weeks free time each year, A. Vaden Couch, general manager, announced.

Couch said Ralston workers will be wished a Merry Christmas when the office and mill close at noon Friday for the holiday with an 11-pound ham. The plant also will close at noon Friday for the New Year vacation.

2 Undeclared Teams To Meet

A tell-tale battle will be fought in Pickaway Fairgrounds Coliseum Saturday night when an undeclared Pickaway squares off against undefeated Walnut.

Fate of the county league probably will rest on the Saturday skirmish. Ashville is the only other county league team sporting an undefeated record to date.

Reserve preliminary encounter is slated to begin at about 7:30 p. m., followed by the varsity engagement at 8:30 p. m.

who desperately need to have their own fluids replenished." Generally speaking, Johnson stated that any healthy man and woman between the ages of 18 and 60 could donate a pint of blood. Donors should weigh at least 110 pounds and should have been in good health prior to the donation. Minors can donate only when written permission has been obtained from parents or guardians.

In discussing some of the points which should be borne in mind, Johnson said that donors should drink fruit juices and eat nothing for at least four hours before the donation. He especially warned against eating heavy breakfasts including eggs, fats, cream, honey, or pancakes.

Immediately after the donation, the Red Cross will serve refreshments consisting of coffee, toast, cookies, ginger ale, or milk. Red Cross officials do not advise a heavy meal immediately after donation.

"It takes about 30 minutes to give a pint of blood," Johnson stated, "and there are no harmful after-effects. Physicians and nurses are in attendance at all times to collect the blood."

Woman Burned As Ashes Fire House Apron

Prompt action by a pair who remembered earlier Boy Scout training probably saved the life of a 60-year-old Circleville woman Saturday morning.

Mrs. Charles Hampton of 129 Pleasant street had been emptying ashes onto a pile behind her home at about 8:30 a. m. when a spark ignited her apron. She ran toward her house when she noticed the flames and, in doing so, fanned the fire into full life.

However, 15-year-old Donald Rinehart, son of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Rinehart, a neighbor, and Tom Purcell of Ashville, a guest in the Rinehart home, sprinted into the Hampton yard to smother the flames by rolling her on the ground and wrapped her with a rug.

Young Rinehart until recently was active in Boy Scout work here and Purcell has been adviser to an Ashville Scout troop.

Purcell, advertising manager for The Circleville Herald, suffered a minor injury when he knicked one hand while vaulting a fence.

She was taken to Berger hospital by Defenbaugh ambulance and treated there for second degree burns.

Hospital attaches said Mrs. Hampton's clothes had been burned off, and only her shoulders and face escaped burns. She was listed in "fair" condition at noon Saturday.

Final Estate Accounts Filed

First and final accounts on two estates have been filed for the approval of Judge Sterling M. Lamb in Pickaway County probate court.

Receipts and disbursements were equal at $30,996.75 on the Frank Wittich estate. Papers were filed by C. A. and Carl C. Leist, co-executors.

Credits and expenses on the estate of Thomas B. Neff were equal at $1,321.50, according to Ray W. Davis, administrator.

Circleville Girl Claims Snagging Possum, Sailfish

Pickaway County fishermen might well take a lesson from Miss Ruth Greenlee, who is spending the winter with Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Miller, owners of Gold Cliff Park, in Plymouth, Fla.

In a recent letter home, Miss Greenlee's fortune with the rod and reel sounded exciting enough to send local rodmen scampering with creel to the ponds of Dixie.

On one occasion, Miss Greenlee switched her tactics of waiting for a fish to bite and layed down her rod while she went to eat. When she returned, she claims, a nice, fat possum dangled on the hook.

Miss Greenlee's adventures in deep sea fishing off Miami were more conventional.

In the warm waters off the Winter resort city, the Circleville girl was the winner in a bout with a 61-pound sailfish and she sent pictures back to prove it.

She said the catch measured six-foot 10-inches long.

munists troops in the Grand Canal area were already reported in training for an attempt to cross the one to two-mile-wide river which bars their entry to the heart of China.

Red forces, infiltrating the government's last big defense line on the Hwai river about 100 miles northwest of Nanking, continued their attempts to cut the rail link between Pengu and Pukow. They have penetrated to within 40 miles of Nanking.

Pukow, on the north bank of the Yangtze across from Nanking, is the southern terminus of the line which runs through Pengu, core of the Hwai river defenses.

"The Advent Song," the con-

Anglican Archbishop's Son To Wed Catholic

LONDON, Dec. 18—The eldest son of Britain's Anglican archbishop of Canterbury and an attractive young Roman Catholic artist have readied their plans for marriage.

The bridegroom-to-be is Henry A. P. Fisher, a 30-year-old lawyer who served in Burma as a colonel during the war.

The girl is Felicity Sutton, a 26-year old Catholic painter with a studio in London's romantic Chelsea.

This unusual marriage will take place in the Catholic Church of the Holy Redeemer in Chelsea today. In keeping with the usual procedure in such so-called "mixed marriages," any children of the union will be brought up in the Catholic faith.

The archbishop's wife, Mrs. Geoffrey Fisher, will attend the ceremony with her other five sons, but the chief primate of the Anglican church will not be present.

Interviewed while standing in the doorway of her fourth-floor studio flat, Miss Sutton said: "It will be a white wedding but very quiet."

"The archbishop will not be able to come. He will be taking ordinations and whatever the circumstances he would not have been able to attend."

"It is quite understandable. After all, he is head of the Church of England and as such could not attend a Catholic service."

"It would be like his attending services in the Vatican. In the same way, I couldn't hope to attend services in Westminster Abbey."

The archbishop's secretary said he would have no comment whatever, but his office confirmed that the bridegroom's mother will attend.

Father A. De Zulueta, parish priest who will perform the ceremony, said that the archbishop's son will not become a Catholic. But he added that the marriage is "subject to the usual conditions of the Catholic church."

This means that the children of the union are to be raised in the Roman Catholic faith.

Nazarenes Set Combined Rites For Sunday

Sunday school and morning worship services are to be combined at services Sunday in Circleville Church of the Nazarene. The pastor, the Rev. D. E. Clay, has chosen "The Dawn of Light" for the topic of his sermon.

Special Christmas music will be offered by the choir. Following worship services an annual Christmas treat has been scheduled by the pastor.

The Sunday school will present a special program Sunday evening in the church, with music by senior and junior choirs.

The NYPs organization will present a playlet entitled "He Careth For His Own" at 7:30 p. m.

AUTOMOBILE OUTPUT

THE output of automobiles and trucks in this country for 1948 will be the second highest in the history of the industry. There is some guessing that it might be the highest. As a point of interest, it is noted that the high mark which still stands was set by the industry in 1929, the year which is remembered for the start of the slide toward depression. We trust there is no significance in the parallel.

Leaders in the automobile industry are doing some hard guessing as to what may be in store for them in the way of market for their product. For many weeks there has been a gradual slackening in demand for cars, with more and more models added to the list of those which can be purchased for almost immediate delivery.

The line between cars which are still scarce and those which are readily available is largely based on prices. The lower priced cars are still much in demand. It is generally believed that whenever sales become too slow, price cuts would quickly stimulate them. Would-be buyers as well as sellers would like very much to know when the price-cutting era is likely to begin, and how deep the cuts are likely to be. We hasten to add that we don't know the answer to either question.

IN OBSERVING the internal affairs of Latin American nations, we should bear in mind that those peoples have not had a background of experience in republican government comparable with that of the United States, and that they do not see democracy in quite the same light.

There have been several examples in recent weeks. There was the bloodless military coup in Venezuela, in which the army turned the elected government out of office. This was followed by the violent attempt against the government of Costa Rica, which itself had gained power by violence. Then the president of El Salvador resigned under the pressure of street rioting.

Most of the Latin American peoples have a long history of tyrannical, imposed government. They are more concerned with self-determination than with the technicalities of election; they are accustomed to rule by the strongest. More time is needed for them to see the advantages of choosing officials by peaceful means.

It seems a pity that North and South America can't change places on the map occasionally, so that all would see something different. The idea seems especially appropriate about this time of year, when the Winter fuel bills begin to come in.

George E. Sokolsky's
These Days

While the American political system calls for a party in power and a loyal opposition, it is not essential that the two parties oppose each other merely for the sake of opposition. In the field of foreign relations, a bipartisan policy has for some years now given evidence of astonishing success. In the fields of national defense and the reorganization of the executive branch of the government, some steps in this direction have been taken which are commendable.

A bipartisan policy does not mean that criticism and scrutiny are forbidden or even limited. It does mean that an effort is made, in a national cause, to avoid the wear and tear of opposition on partisan grounds. As I have already pointed out, if men of such political divergence as Herbert Hoover and Dean Acheson can agree upon a recommendation, the preliminary work to get a job done on a bipartisan basis is helpful to the country.

This rule should be applied to the very vexed and difficult-to-prove problem of Communist intrigue, infiltration, sabotage and espionage within the government. No one would say that Harry Truman is a Communist or that he can possibly sympathize with them.

Yet he indirectly shields them by calling a congressional investigation of them a "red herring." This was not a quip; it is an attitude not toward the Communists but toward the Republicans.

The Democrats feel that the Republicans reopened the Chambers-Hiss case during the special session of Congress for the sole purpose of using the hearings of the committee on Un-American activities as part of their effort to elect Dewey as President.

In a word, they feel that it was an anti-Truman movement, and they resented it. To the Democrats, what was disclosed was not a matter of national significance but a "headline" theft—an effort to divert attention from the presidential campaign to Communist espionage.

This, of course, the Republicans deny, but their denials fall on deaf ears. It is just possible that had the "pumpkin" material been found before Election Day, Dewey might have received the additional votes which would have elected him. Such speculation does not help in the solution of the problem which is: Was the United States betrayed by its own officials in the interest of Soviet Russia?

The congressional committee exists to investigate matters for purposes of legislation. As the guilt or virtue of no individual is involved theoretically, such committees permit themselves the widest latitude. Often the mere questioning of an individual results, however, in a public assumption of his guilt, the stigma remaining with him for life. It is this misunderstanding of the purpose, function and method of the congressional committee and its effect upon individuals which has brought upon such committees a degree of public censure.

In Autumn are the days when Nature itself grows poetical, and the kids have a wonderful time kicking up the leaves and making a sort of artistic mess of everything.

They say it's always fair weather when good fellows get together, but the final arrangements with the elements sometimes go awry.

All About Marriage
by ETHEL HUESTON

CHAPTER THIRTY

RED SMILED at her when Sammy suggested his chapel for their wedding. "I knew you had something up your sleeve, Sammy. I've been waiting for you to bring it out. Because every other place I mentioned you had objections to, though I was trying to please you. I thought maybe you wanted to go home."

"No, I've been away too long and all my close relatives and my old friends have gone from there. Somehow I can't see it anywhere but in the little chapel."

"We could dress it up with a lot of flowers and things," Red said, considering it frowningly. "You know what we could do, Sammy? We could have it after our regular service, so our own congregation—"

"We have bigger and tougher crowds at night. I'll bet some of those mugs never saw a marriage without a shotgun or a cop in attendance. I don't usually believe in Sunday marriages but it would be quite late in the evening and the Sabbath nearly over."

"We don't want a reception," Sammy agreed quickly. "And I had already decided to wear street clothes. My nicest ones, of course. What do you think, Mark?"

"I think," he said deliberately, "that you are some couple!"

"Does that mean that you approve?" she asked doubtfully.

"I approve on one condition. One condition only," he repeated sternly. "Obviously you invited me here today to help you run your lives. I'll settle for running the wedding. I approve, on condition you leave the church decoration entirely in my hands. Every detail of it, down to the last wilted rosebud."

"We do not want waste or extravagance, Mark," Red interposed quickly. "We just want it to look nice. The church is small but it's clean and white. We want it to look nice, not elegant, not elaborate."

"It'll look nice," Mark promised gleefully. "No waste and no extravagance. Ferns and palms can be rented and returned. As for the flowers, I give you my word of honor I will deliver them in person to orphans' homes and hospitals first thing on Monday morning. No, by George, I won't! I'll have them specially arranged and after you sail down the aisle when it is over, I will have a small bunch of flowers for every woman and child in the audience and a blue cornflower for the lapel of every man. How's that?"

"Mark, that's wonderful!"

"Not bad, not at all bad for a beginner," Red said heartily.

"But could you get those things done on Sunday afternoon, Mark?"

"Listen, how is this?" Mark's enthusiasm was soaring. "How about getting the palms and ferns all set on Saturday afternoon, ready for your Sunday morning service? Nothing about it, no flowers, just the greens and plants. Give the morning parish-ers an eye-ful."

"That's good," Red assented. "And at the morning service we will announce that we are having a special evening shindig and invite them all back. And some will come."

"Will you be able to preach that day, Red?"

"I have sense enough not to try. I'd probably wind up pronouncing the whole congregation husband and wife or words to that effect. No, I have a pal who will take the morning service—he often helps me out. But I'll be there to steer things along and issue the invitation. And I know a man who will come on from Chicago for the evening service and the ceremony. He's a great guy. He's a sort of relative of mine a mile or so removed and we hit it off very well. Surprisingly well, considering that he's a bishop."

"Are you sure he will come so far in the middle of winter?" Sammy asked.

"Yes," Red said with complete confidence.

"Sure you want to tackle the trimming chore, Mark?"

"Yes," Mark said, with equal firmness. "If that isn't left to me, there'll be no wedding, and you may lay to that. When your bishop hits the line, Any objections, or hold your peace. I'll heckle! I've been wanting to heckle ever since you told me about it. I'll say this couple is unfair to organized friendship."

"O.K., O.K., we're not arguing with you," Red assured him laughingly.

"When?" Mark asked eagerly.

"Next Sunday?"

Red laughed again. "This is New York, Mark, and this is Friday. There are formalities to be observed. It'll take a couple of weeks. Not more than three at the very longest. All right with you, Sammy?"

"All right with me, Red," she replied joyously. "Isn't Mark wonderful? Aren't you glad we asked him?"

When Alan Collwell reached home at ten o'clock that Friday evening, he sensed from the tightness of his wife's greeting embrace that things were not exactly right and her first words gave disturbing confirmation.

"Alan! I was never so glad to see anybody in my life!"

"That's nice," he said pleasantly, easing himself out of his heavy topcoat. "It would be pretty discouraging to be met with 'You again! Why couldn't it have been anybody else?'"

Jean's only answer was a breath so deeply drawn as to approximate a sigh.

"Donna home?" he asked casually.

"No. She is working this week end. She came up Wednesday."

He followed her into the living room where a cheerful fire blazed cordial comfort. "She's all right, I suppose," he suggested tentatively.

"Yes."

From the thinness of her voice he knew the trouble had to do with Donna.

Try, Stop Me

A gullible soul on the Wall Street Journal would have believed that the beautiful daughter of doughty sea-captain Cephus Murphy spent so much of her life with her daddy on the boundless main that she was completely innocent in the ways of Romeos on shore. One night, he says, she went motoring with one of them while the Murphy ship was in dry-dock in Portland, and didn't get home until four in the morning.

Her explanation, given to her father with a perfectly straight face, was, "Dad, we were becalmed. The wind died in one of our tires, and John convinced me we had to wait for it to spring up again."

Whether or not Captain Murphy fell for this tale, the Journal man could not, or would not, say.

Mezz Mezzrow, the blues specialist, claims there is one musician in his new quartet who gotten so swell-headed his hat is now too big for his trumpet.

The American economy produced a total of 1,483,000,000 tons of raw materials in 1939.

Pages From the Diary of An Antiquated Reporter:

Up to a fine morning of sunshine and with a nip in the air quite different from the springlike atmosphere it replaced. Not surprised, for the day before had noted sun dogs in the afternoon, they almost invariably indicating a change in weather. About time that Winter struck around here if we are to have Spring at the usual time.

Met Charlie Glitt and voiced regret at inability to attend his venison dinner of the night before. Quite an affair, I understand, with all guests given an opportunity to tell tall tales about their hunting ability. This was Charlie's first deer in seven trips.

Chatted with Ray Bales and learned that he is set for his usual winter-missing trip into the Southland. Harry Sohn told me he is about to take off and does not expect to return before May. Jim Stout is casting eyes toward Florida, but he has done so before without results. Me, I don't like Florida and wouldn't go there if I could. Prefer Arizona or New Mexico.

Dorsey Bosworth is one of my carrier boys. For a long time he delivered the paper to Miss India Barks, Scioto and Mill streets. Since she was unable to pick the paper off the porch, being 93 years of age and feeble, Dorsey took the paper in to her each afternoon, even read part of it to her when he had time. About a month ago Miss Barks died. The other day relatives in going through her effects found a package addressed to Dorsey. It contained the fine old lady's Bible and a dollar bill, both of which had been intended as his Christmas gift. No one ever saw a more pleased youngster. How's your Christmas spirit?

Wonder whether this is wishful thinking on the part of some or whether it may become an actuality? Real estate is to be appraised next year and pretty well defined rumor has it that valuations may be established on the basis of property income. Citizens living in their own homes may be only slightly affected. But owners of property on the tax duplicate now at three, or four or five thousand dollars and renting the property for high figures may be facing a surprise. The appraisal may be ten times the income. You know, 10 percent is supposed to be a fair income on real estate investment. So far the plan is only rumor, but it has many boosters, particularly those paying rents that are exorbitant from any angle you view them. Wouldn't there be a yell if a house now on the tax duplicate at $3,500 were jumped to $9,000 or $10,000 because the income from the house indicated that the $9,000 or $10,000 were its actual present day value? Yipe!

Home came the son of a very prominent local family. In the house he stubbed his toe and came an ejaculation that both surprised and shocked the mother. "Where did you ever learn such a word," she asked the lad and was informed that he had picked it up from a neighbor boy. "But where did he learn it?" the mother asked. "I don't know," said the son, "but his system is just cram full of it." Names? Oh, no! I don't like kids throwing rocks at me.

"Why Can't I Have a Telephone?"

Is An Expression Heard Frequently In The Telephone Office

In some areas service requests have far exceeded our ability to increase facilities, and telephone lines are filled to capacity.

Copper and lead, and many other raw materials are still on the critical list and difficult to obtain. The shortage of these materials naturally restricts the manufacture of telephone equipment and construction materials. Even when the equipment and materials can be delivered there is still the question of manpower for the associated installations and construction time. It is physically impossible to get it all installed at the same time.

That is why every applicant can not have a telephone at once. Some service, however, is being furnished where facilities are available, and every effort is being made to provide telephone facilities adequate to take care of all those desiring service as soon as possible.

Elinor Williams' Teen Tips

Parents who do not allow their children to invite their friends to their homes are one of the most serious problems of high school girls and boys.

Everybody knows that there was less juvenile delinquency, less crime and destruction by teenagers, when everybody had fun at home. . . when recreation, pleasures and get-togethers centered in the home instead of in public places.

Nowadays, too many high school girls' and boys' letters say that their parents won't let them invite their friends or dates to their homes because (1) the parents cling to old European ideas that it isn't "nice" for a girl to invite a boy to her house, even with a friendly group, unless they're engaged to be married or (2) modern parents won't let them use any of the facilities of their home with friends because they don't want it "mussed up" . . . apparently concerned more with the appearance of the home than with their child's normal development, social experience, relationships, etc.

Here's one of their many letters—"I would like to ask my boy friend to come to my house, but I don't want to seem too forward. I was wondering how I could go about it, as I can't ask him over to make candy, etc., because my mother won't give me the 'run' of the house. There is a map coming up in social studies that we both have to do and he is quite an artist. Do you think if I asked him over to help me with it that this would be a good plan? Also, how should I make my parents understand and agree?"

This is a grand idea. You don't need the "run" of the house to work on the map together—just a table, chairs, pencils, etc. It's a hospitable custom to offer guests something simple to eat, so try to get soft drinks in advance or make cocoa to serve with cookies or cake. Explain to your parents that boys—and everybody else—have higher regard for girls who have fun with friends at home in the normal, wholesome way instead of meeting them in questionable public places. It's their duty to

Major Grid Loops Set Title Tilts

Browns Eye Bills;
Eagles Face Cards

CLEVELAND, Dec. 18 — The Cleveland Browns and their favorite cousins from across Lake Erie, the Buffalo Bills, will debate the championship of the All-America Football Conference in the semi-privacy of Municipal Stadium tomorrow.

The undefeated Browns, gunning for their third title in the three-year history of the AAF, had good reason to expect not more than 25,000 spectators for the climax game.

Not only did the Browns defeat the Bills twice during the regular season and once in an exhibition game, but in league play they scored more points against Buffalo than against any other team. They also had a greater "spread" between their total points and Buffalo's total than against any other opponent.

Having kicked the Bills around, 42 to 13, in Buffalo Sept. 12 and, 31 to 14, in Cleveland Oct. 17, the Browns could have no logical quarrel with men who made them 17-point favorites, the most popular figure for tomorrow's game.

So long as Navy plays Army, however, there will always be upsets.

AND THERE did Buffalo place its faith today in girding its warriors for the final push.

The league will report for duty at the prescribed 1:30 p. m. (EST) kickoff time tomorrow.

They are confident that the ghost of the Christmas past, if nothing else, will see the Browns through once more.

Meanwhile in Philadelphia, the Philadelphia Eagles and the Chicago Cardinals will battle it out tomorrow for the National Football League title amid reports that one or both of the teams is contemplating league-hopping.

The Cardinals, this year's western division champs, are slated to arrive in Philadelphia today and go directly to Shibe Park—site of tomorrow's game—for a workout.

The Eagles went through their longest drill of the week yesterday and all appeared to be in readiness—except the weather. The weather-man foresaw rain mixed with wet snow and cold temperatures.

Coach Earle (Greasy) Neale took time out from his practice chores yesterday to deny reports that the Eagles were contemplating a move to New York City and the All-America Conference.

Willis Stays

With Beau Jack

DETROIT, Dec. 18—Former Lightweight Champion Beau Jack can claim a victory over Detroit's unorthodox Leroy Willis today, but the element of satisfaction this usually brings is missing.

Willis—Michigan's lightweight champion—became Jack's foe for last night's Olympia Stadium headliner by chance. Johnny Greco had been matched with the flashy New Yorker but Greco was injured several weeks ago and Willis was signed.

At the end of ten rounds, Jack's arm went up in the gesture of the conqueror, but the crowd gave Willis a thunderous ovation for making the once "invincible" Jack go the distance.

Ohio Colleges Book Pre-Yule Vacation Games

COLUMBUS, Dec. 18—Final games before Ohio's collegians begin Christmas vacations will be played throughout the state tonight with six teams taking on out-of-state opponents.

In other games around Ohio's colleges Baldwin-Wallace meets Muskingum; Kent State plays host to Miami; Ohio U. goes to Akron, and Marietta journeys to Youngstown.

In games played last night, John Carroll university continued its winning ways by smashing Case Tech, 68-42, in the first game of a basketball double header. Miami routed Western Reserve, 83-53, in the second game.

Elsewhere in Ohio last night, Toledo edged Valparaiso, 53-50; Kentucky Wesleyan nosed out Cedarville, 66-65; Rio Grande walloped Detroit Tech, 79-53, and Loyola of Chicago topped Bowling Green, 65-62, in an overtime contest.

New Holland Edges Monroe

New Holland Bulldogs invaded at Monroe Friday to win over the Indians by a scant 44-41 margin.

The New Hollanders trailed in the first half of the ball game, coming from a 22-19 halftime deficit to win by the three-point margin as the final buzzer sounded.

Two men sparked the Bulldog offensive in the match. They were Gene Ankrom and Joe Gooley, who tied for high scoring honors with a total of 19 points apiece.

Bob Bowsher of Monroe ranked second with 16, and Lester Saunders of the Indian five placed third with 14.

Monroe reserves topped the Bulldog juniors 24-22 in the opener.

Monroe's next tilt is scheduled for Tuesday night when Hamilton Township will invade the varsity tilt.

Empire City's Future Debated

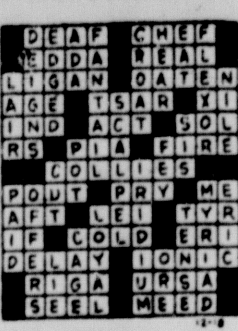

NEW YORK, Dec. 18—Thoroughbred racing's fate at historic Empire City, near Yonkers, was to be decided Tuesday by open debate at a meeting of three official groups at an unnamed New York rendezvous.

Announcement of the session was made today, following the introduction of a resolution in Yonkers city council demanding state legislative action that would return the sport to the "old hilltop."

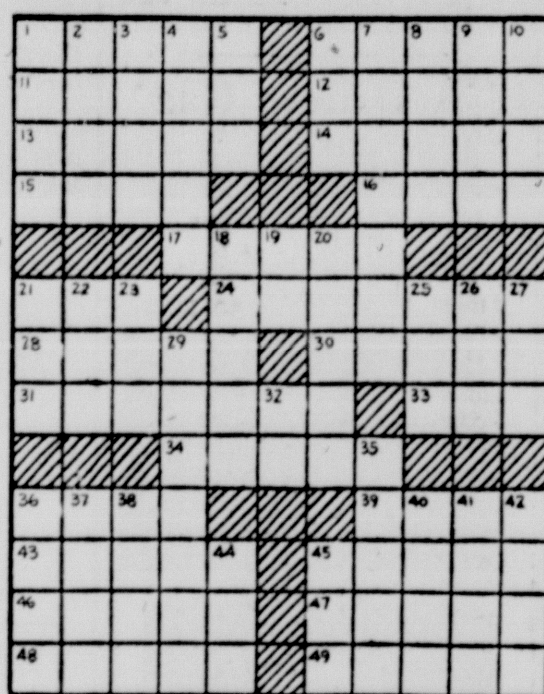

Members of the state racing commission, Yonkers' city officials and its Chamber of Commerce were to take part in the debate.

Yesterday's Answer

Racing Panel Vacancy Eyed

COLUMBUS, Dec. 18—Political circles in Columbus today picked two local Democrats as the most likely prospects for the vacancy on the state racing commission.

In Ohio's capital city the rumors were that the post would fall to either Ollie Oelgoetz, a figure in both sports and politics, or Robert O. Read, counsel for the Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Association.

Rumors also had it that the selection would fall to Governor-Elect Frank J. Lausche, since state law decrees that the board be equally bipartisan.

Saddler Scores Easy Victory

NEW YORK, Dec. 18—Sandy Saddler, world's featherweight boxing champion, looked forward today with confidence to his return title bout with Willie Pep in February.

Saddler, who upset Pep last Oct. 29, demonstrated in Madison Square Garden last night that his win over Willie was no fluke.

Sandy spotted Terry Young, rugged New York lightweight, eight pounds and scored a technical knockout over him in the tenth and final round of a non-title bout.

Officials Urge Safety In Toys

Chiefs Ask Parents' Cooperation

Hazards Listed In Purchases

Pickaway County parents were urged Saturday to bear in mind the safety of their children when buying toys and entertainment gadgets for Christmas presents.

Fire Chief Palmer Wise and Police Chief William F. McCrady joined their appeals with Pickaway County Sheriff Charles Radcliff to make the 1948 Yule season not only a happy one but also a safe one.

The safety-minded officials claim that many parents buy toys to please themselves rather than the children, and will fail to keep safety in mind when they choose toys.

Listed below are hazards to avoid in choosing playthings for children of various ages:

Hand to Mouth Age (up to 2 years)—Avoid small toys which can be placed in mouth. . . flammable objects. . . toys with small wheels or knobs that can be pulled off. . . poisonous paint on any object. . . stuffed animals with glass or button eyes (most of them will come off). Either remove at once or buy animals with stitched eyes).

Explorative Age (2 to 3 years)—Avoid anything with sharp or rough edges which will cut or scratch. . . objects with small removable parts. . . poisonous paint or crayons. . . marbles. . . beads. . . jacks. . . flammable objects.

Let's Pretend Age (3 to 4 years)—Avoid toys too heavy for child's strength. . . sharp or cutting toys. . . cowboy suits or other costumes which are not flame-proofed. . . electrical toys.

Creative Age (4 to 6 years)—Avoid shooting or target toys which will endanger eyes. . . sharp whistles, horns or other mouth objects that can be fallen on. . . sharp scissors or cutting instruments. . . sewing machines.

Dexterity Age (6 to 8 years)—Avoid electrical toys not approved by Underwriters' Laboratories. . . transportation toys which entice children into the street. . . sharp-edged tools. . . conductive kites. . . dart games.

Specialization Age (8 and older)—Avoid air rifles, chemist sets, darts, bows and arrows, dangerous tools and electrical toys UNLESS used under parental supervision. . . motor scooters or motorized bikes.

Bat Batted

SWAMPSCOTT, Mass., Dec. 18—Swampscott police reported "mission accomplished" today in ridding a local ladies' sewing circle of a bat that almost broke up their needle-and-thread session. Two patrolmen raced to the rescue, clubbed the bat to the floor, and carried him victoriously away. The ladies claimed they didn't miss a stitch.

Wind Tunnel Used By Wrights Given To School

DAYTON, Dec. 18—The wind tunnel used by the late Orville and Wilbur Wright in developing some of today's aeronautical formulae will be set up for experimental research on the Miami university campus.

A group of heirs of the Wright estate have purchased the tunnel from the estate and given it to the university.

The gift was termed historically invaluable by John E. Dolibois, executive secretary of the alumni association. The donors are alumni of Miami university and Oxford college.

Dolibois said that the 20-foot long tunnel would be re-assembled on the campus and used by the department of aeronautics.

Meanwhile, a nephew of the Wright brothers, Milton Wright, Sr., was to represent the estate today in Washington at the formal presentation of the Wright's first plane to the Smithsonian institute.

Wright, Sr., a graduate of Miami university, has presented the school with a number of books from the Orville Wright private library.

Walnut Presents Yule Pageant

A pageant in pantomime, "Christmas" is to be presented before Walnut Township PTA at 8 p. m. Monday.

Directed by Mrs. Victor Osterling, the pageant will be made colorful with the use of different groups singing descriptive songs and carols. Parents and teachers of Walnut school will see the scene of the Nativity visually described in a way unlike usual presentations of the manger scene.

Principal parts are carried by members of the seventh and eighth grades, supported by choral groups from the fourth and fifth grades, the sixth grade, and the high school.

In 1940, the United States had facilities to produce annually about 81.6 million tons of steel ingots and by 1945, about 95.5 million tons.

Japs Awaiting Court Decision

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18—The future of 25 convicted Japanese war criminals, seven under death sentence, hung in the balance today as the supreme court considered whether it could review their cases.

The high court has before it appeals for freedom by seven of the Japanese war lords convicted by an international military tribunal in Tokyo. It has ruled that before it can review their cases it must decide whether it has jurisdiction.

The supreme court has heard Solicitor General Philip Perlman argue that it has no power to review the tribunal's decisions. Attorneys for the convicted men declare that it does have the power.

Killer Given Life Term

CLEVELAND, Dec. 18—William E. Smith, 26, of Cleveland, was sentenced last night to life imprisonment for the first-degree murder of John Vargo, a grocery store owner.

Smith was found guilty of first-degree murder but mercy was recommended.

Assistant Cuyahoga County Prosecutor Harry R. Monck held that Smith went to Vargo's store June 2 with intent of a hold-up.

Smith's counsel, Norman S. Minor, argued that Smith had shot to defend himself against Vargo, who, he claimed, had a butcher knife in his hands. Minor said that death resulted from an argument over a five dollar bill.
